MOUNT VERNON.

The women who compose the Friday Night Lit-erary Circle of Mount Vernon devised a novel and supremely entertaining programme to close the sea-son on Friday evening, at the home of Mrs. Joseph S. Wood. It was decided that the husbands of the married members should read some humorous se-lection. If they falled, a severe penalty was to be exacted. It was natural, therefore, that the benedicts who stand in awe of their wives should humbly submit, and the women had everything their own way. Many of the selections caused great laughter; some of them were more of the side-splitting nature than anything in "Peck's Bad Boy." To add to the interest of the closing night, a number of guests were invited to witness the exhibition of men being obedient to their wives; hence it was not only a literary gathering, but a social gathering as well. Supper was served in the large hail. A young men's mandolin, banjo and guitar club added to the enjoyment. Among the many present were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Wood, Dr. and Mrs. M. S. Page, the Misses MacMartin, the Misses Alice, Jane, and Esther Andrews, Miss Sutherland, the Rev. and Mrs. W. A Granger, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Stecker, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Williams, Mrs. Sarah Jeanneret, Mrs. Henry E. Rhoades, Mr. and Mrs. William M. Denman, Mrs. D. V. Whitmore and Mrs. Jacques W. Redway.

ALDERMAN WARE MAKES A REPLY.

Alderman Ware, chairman of the Law Committee of the Common Council, replied yesterday to the letter of Wensley & Gilroy, the law firm, which compiled the city ordinances, in which they ask Mr. Ware to point out the errors and omissions which he said had been found in their work. Mr.

which he said had been found in their work. Mr. Ware wrote:

Messrs. Wensley & Gilroy, No. 10 Wall-st., New-York City.

Sirs: Your letter of the 8th inst. received. I am but one of a committee of five, each of whom signed the report to which you take exception; but I am entirely willing to assume the responsibility for it.

You state in your letter, "the chief contention seems to be that the scope of our retainer limited us to making a compilation of the existing ordinances rather than revising them." Your letter to the Counsel to the Corporation, in which you make a formal report of your work, and which letter was printed in the supplement to "The City Record" of April 1, 1885, begins as follows:

"Pursuant to your retainer to revise and compile the city ordinances, we have the honor to report that the said revision is now completed," etc., and at the beginning of the next paragraph of the same letter you state "the scope of our retainer was limited to the revision of the ordinances as they have been already passed, rather than to prepare new ordinances for adoption by the Board of Aldermen; we have, therefore, made the revision with that end in view."

These statements are not easily reconciled, and it would certainly be presumed that you would be more careful to be correct in your official report to the Counsel to the Corporation than in your open letter addressed to me.

It would hardly be appropriate for me, as a public official and chairman of one of the committee of the committee will be definitely pointed out, and as to the statement in your teter that the report of the committee will be definitely pointed out, and as to the statement in your teter that the report "is maliciously false, and made for policial effect only," I would refer you to the other members of the committee will be definitely pointed out, and as to the statement in your teter that the report of the committee will be definitely pointed out, and as to the statement ln your teter that the report of the committee will be definitely point

OHIO SOUTHERN SECURITY-HOLDERS

At a conference of large holders of Ohio Southern first-mortgage bonds, held at the office of Roiston & Bass, No. 20 Broad-st., yesterday, it was decided to take steps for the protection of the interests of the security-holders. The lien of the bondholders has gage bonds. The company has just been placed in the hands of a receiver, the State Court in Lima, Ohio, having appointed George W. Saul, the president of the company. The present indebtedress of the company is known to exceed $50,000, and unless some concerted action is taken immediately by the security-holders there will probably be an effort to issue receiver's certificates, which will take prece-dence over the first mortgage bonds. As a result of the meeting, the firm of Rolston & Bass was au-thorized to invite formally the co-operation of Ohio Southern bondholders, with a view to concentrating all interests so as to advise the court of the facts in the case and prevent, if possible, the creation of receiver's certificates.
